

PLB is partnering with United Way 2-1-1 in launching the Intellectual and Developmental Disability Information and Assistance (IDDHELP) service for the St. Louis Region. This project between United Way and PLB leverages the existing 2-1-1 Information and Referral system, enhances it with in-depth disabilities specific resources, and provides a centralized source of information regarding services for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities and their caregivers.

The goal of this partnership is to:

- provide a coordinated approach to the extensive resources in the St. Louis region
- increase successful navigation of complex social service systems by individuals, families, and the agencies who support them
- increase awareness of and simplify connections to needed services
- empower individuals and families by enhancing their advocacy skills

To help us launch this exciting new partnership, United Way is seeking two people with expertise in the field of intellectual and developmental disabilities to serve as Community Connectors, as described in this job posting... CLICK HERE.
